FUNERAL OF MRS. WILLIAMS

LARGELY ATTENDED YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Services were held at the house on Eynon street—Funeral of William Maher, John Connors, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. LaBar and Mrs. Hopkins. Address on Missionary Work by Harriet Newall Jones in Jackson Street Church—Dangerous Crossing—Dolls' Carnival—Other Notes.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. Hopkins Williams yesterday afternoon were attended by a multitude of relatives and friends of the aged lady, whose life work was ended so abruptly. The house on Eynon street was inadequate to accommodate all who gathered there to pay their last respects to the deceased. At 2:30 o'clock Rev. J. B. Sweet began the service and spoke words of consolation and comfort to all. Rev. David Jones spoke in Welsh, and the choir of the First Welsh Congregational church assisted in the singing.

The cortege moved to Washburn street cemetery, where a short service was conducted at the grave by Rev. Jones. The pall-bearers were William N. Chase, George T. Jones, John R. Williams, Samuel R. Hughes, Watkin Williams and W. R. Hughes. James Jeremiah, Jr., and W. H. Wright were the flower-bearers.

The out-of-town relatives in attendance were Postmaster Thomas P. Jacobs and wife and Mrs. Richard Jacobs, of Nanticoke; Richard Williams and family, of Olyphant; Mrs. John W. The Black Dress Goods Department At the Globe Warehouse

Has often formed the topic of conversation among Dress Goods experts miles and miles away from Scranton, because of the completeness, variety and extent of the stock carried within its limits. Outsiders cannot understand why a stock of such magnitude should be carried in a city like Scranton, when stores with much greater pretensions than ours in New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Chicago, etc., get along with half the assortment we offer our patrons.

The "Whys" Regarding This Fact

Are not worth discussing, however, for while we are proud of the distinction of having one of the most complete Black Dress Goods Departments in the country, we have no thought of becoming vain-gloriously boastful about it. Indeed, all we care for is to impress the one fact upon the people from whom we look for patronage viz:

If Black Dress Goods Are Wanted

And the Weave or Design Sought for

Is Not Antiquated, We Have It at Its Best

And at a lower figure than it can probably be bought for elsewhere. It will be found in our Black Dress Goods Department as soon as it makes its appearance on the market. We do not wait to see whether the new style will take or not. Experience has taught us to solve that problem at a glance, consequently we never hesitate.

These facts are not easily grasped and taken at their true value by the mere reading of an advertisement, but if it should happen that you are not familiar with our Black Dress Goods Department, favor us with a call at an early date, if for no other purpose than to look it over. After that you'll be as firmly convinced as we are of the truth of our statements.

DOUBTFUL RUMORS

And Still Scores of Scranton People Accept Them as Facts.

The published statement of some stranger residing in a far-away place may be true enough, but it is generally accepted as a doubtful rumor. How can it be verified? The testimony which follows is convincing proof, because it comes from a resident of Scranton.

Mrs. J. Bertrand, of 425 South Washington avenue, says: "I stopped during my house work I had put my hands on my back before I could rise. It hurt me at night so that I could not get healthful rest. I used to turn over and over and then get up and try all kinds of ways to secure a restful position. There was such pain in my side that I could not lie on it, and I bloated in my body, limbs and feet. I went to Matthews Brothers' drug store and got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and used them regularly. The treatment completely cured me."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

Foreign Missionary Work.

Harriet Nowall Jones, of Philadelphia, secretary of the Women's Baptist Missionary society, spoke at the meeting of the society last evening to a large audience. She outlined the work that is being carried on by the organization in America, India, China, Japan, Africa and other places and told of the need of missionary work in the missionary world and referred to the work accomplished during the past thirty years.

"Womely women are needed," she said, "whose hearts are tender and true to carry on this responsible work. God long ago touched the human strings of woman's heart to the needs of foreign women. We want women to pray sympathize and give financial aid towards the support of missionaries now in the field. God has given the women of America a position higher than that of any other women in the world."

The choir rendered special music during the service and William Stanton, cornetist, and William Allen, violinist, assisted in the service.

Plymouth Congregational Church.

Communion services were held at the Plymouth Congregational church yesterday morning. Two children were baptized and two new members were added to the church roll.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor society has changed their time of meeting to Sunday evening between 6 and 7 o'clock. The meeting last evening was largely attended and was in charge of Hayden Oliver.

Gomer D. Reese assumed charge as choirster of the Sunday school yesterday. A quartette comprising D. E. Hughes, Richard Phillips, William Phillips and John Phillips rendered a very appropriate selection entitled "We're on the way" at last evening's service.

The ladies of the church whose initials begin with E, F, G and H will serve supper in the lecture room Wednesday evening.

The teachers' meeting will be held immediately after the prayer meeting Thursday evening.

In order to compete for these prizes the following conditions must be fulfilled: 1.—Registration fee of ten cents paid. 2.—Full name and address of owner. 3.—All dolls must be registered before Friday, Nov. 20, at 9 p. m.

All dolls registered will be returned to the owners at the close of the carnival in good condition. The conditions of competition for this prize are as follows: 1.—All articles must be registered before 9 o'clock, Friday, Nov. 20, 1900. 2.—Registered fee of ten cents must be paid. 3.—Full name and address of maker.

On Tuesday evening, Nov. 20, Miss Mary Haines Hall will talk to the girls and women on "The Care of the Body." Miss Hall comes to us with a thorough knowledge of the subject and is at the present time proving her "sagacious" training in the central city, that the children of the city, their rosy cheeks and grow old so young is lack of exercise, improper nourishment, and neglect in the care of the body.

Every member who has left everything that was at the "sex" door, with every muscle and thought at the teacher's control, is proof enough that what our women need most is physical exercise and entire relaxation of the mind. All women and girls are invited to attend this lecture on Tuesday night, at 8 o'clock. Admission free.

A general meeting of all committees of the Dolls' Carnival is called for Monday at 4 p. m.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. Margaret Hopkins were conducted Saturday afternoon at the residence of Miss M. J. Evans, on Freeman avenue, Bellevue. Interment was made in the Washburn street cemetery.

The funeral of the late Miss Gibbons will take place at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. A mass will be conducted at St. Patrick's Catholic church and interment will be made in Cathedral cemetery.

A farewell reception will be held tonight at the Congregational Tabernacle, on South Hyde Park avenue, to Rev. E. E. Lewis, of West Scranton, who is about to leave for Europe on an extended trip. Several ministers will be present and music will be furnished by the members of several city choirs.

Rev. Lewis is one of the oldest ordained ministers of the city and has been here since 1856. He will tour England and Wales.

INSPECTION OF NEW BUILDING

MEMBERS OF BOARD OF CONTROL VISITED NO. 2.

It is a Twelve-Room Building Located on Orchard Street in the Twelfth Ward and is One of the Most Complete Structures in the City—Ten Rooms of the School Are Now in Use—Something about the Heating System in Use—Members of Inspecting Party.

Saturday afternoon the building committee of the board of control of the Scranton public schools inspected the recently erected school, No. 2, on Arch-hold street, Twelfth ward. The inspecting party consisted of Captain W. A. May, D. J. Roche, Jacob Schaeffer, George Shires, Patrick Golden, A. T. Francois, J. H. Phillips, Elias Evans, A. B. Eynon, Anthony Walsh, Contractors John Benore and M. J. Ruddy, Architect James H. Peoney, School Engineer J. J. Harris and Ezra Scott, of the firm of C. B. Scott.

The building, which is one of the most complete and up-to-date school buildings, is of brick, two and one-half stories high, with front entrance and coping of rough bluestone and surrounded with a cupola. It has a frontage of seventy feet and a depth of 123 feet, with interior finishings in pine and maple.

There are twelve rooms in the building, six on each floor, and each with a seating capacity ranging from forty-eight to fifty-six. Ten rooms are now in use. The rooms are very pleasant and cheerful, and the windows so arranged as to admit plenty of light. The flooring is done with maple, while the wainscoting is of pine.

LOCKER ROOMS.

Connected with each room are two locker rooms, one for use by the girls and the other to be used by the boys, thereby making the entrances into each room, as the locker or cloak rooms open into the corridors. The cellar is large and roomy, and could very well be utilized for night school work.

Stationed along the main corridors are two wash basins, each with a sanitary drinking fountain of the latest design, and which are sanitary beyond a doubt. It is a small upright stand, three feet high, with a cup-like top, through which projects a water pipe. The water is turned on, it is forced upward out of this inner pipe, a distance of about three inches, falling back into the cup-like top and carried away. The person desiring to drink merely puts his mouth over this stream and drinks as easily as with a glass. There is no such thing as a cup used.

Direct communication can be had from one room to another and to the janitor by means of speaking tubes. Each room is also supplied with a small supply room for storing and keeping maps, books, ink, etc.

The school is lighted throughout with electricity and heated with the most thoroughly up-to-date and complete system of heating, known as the mechanical blower system or indirect radiator. It is so complete in its details that a satisfactory result will be of interest.

This system, known as the mechanical blower system, heats all the rooms with indirect radiation, the heat only being heated with air and the distribution of it, by means of a huge blower or fan through passageways, to the different rooms.

BOILER AND ENGINE.

To do this work, an eighty-horsepower boiler of the Legg's design, with a thirteen-horsepower engine, capable of making 300 revolutions per minute, were placed in the cellar. This system of radiating is known as the indirect radiator and is forcing heated air through one set of passageways to the room, another fan is driving out through another set the impure air in the rooms, making a complete system of ventilation.

The cold air is sucked in by means of this blower, and the chill is taken from it by its passing through a coil of heated pipes, when it becomes temperate. In this state it can be forced by means of the fan to the rooms, but if the rooms are cool and the warming, a damper, which is automatic, is thrown open and this temperate air is forced through another coil of heated pipes and becomes super-heated, passing from this passageway into the room, immediately raising the temperature.

Now comes the most ingenious part of the whole system. It is the manner in which a room can be kept through the coldest, as well as the warmest, weather at the same temperature. This is done by the thermostat. By means of this instrument, which works automatically, and reverses itself at a fixed temperature, super-heated air can be let into the room, or if the temperature is already above that fixed by the thermostat, and which is generally set at 70 degrees, it is automatically thrown shut the super-heated air chamber, which immediately lets in a flood of temperate air, cooling at once the temperature of the room, varying in the coldest weather but one degree, and during the summer months, it is one time and extreme cold at another, as is the case frequently with schools heated with direct radiation.

NEARLY PERFECT.

J. J. Davis, mechanical engineer in charge of the Scranton school system, says the system is as near perfect as human ingenuity can make it.

It was put in by the C. B. Scott company, under the direction of Ezra Scott. John Benore erected the building at a contract price of $25,255. The heating was done by C. B. Scott at contract price of $5,416.50, and Hunt & Connel, plumbing, $1,970.
